

5 Reasons David Rockefeller Was Not Liked. Envy Of Wealth Is Not One Of Them.

written by GEG | March 22, 2017

David Rockefeller, the last grandson of JD Rockefeller, died on Sunday March 19th at age 101. Mainstream media has hailed him as a philanthropist and visionary, but the programs he set in motion do not support that image. Instead, his life work has produced monopolies, cartels, and private societies to promote population control and global government based on the model of collectivism. -GEG

With New World Order kingpin David Rockefeller dead, here's a look at the top 5 reasons why he was one of the most despised people on Earth and won't be missed.

1. Founder Of Several Secret Societies

David Rockefeller was a huge part of virtually every secret society of ultra rich on the planet. He was not just a member of the Council Of Foreign Relations, the Trilateral Commission, and the Bilderberg Group – he was reportedly the founder. Through these secret societies and others like the occult Bohemian Grove club, Rockefeller conspired to control the media and governments around the world to establish his goal towards a one world government, even once thanking the media for it's complicity.

"We are grateful to the Washington Post, the New York Times, Time Magazine and other great publications whose directors have attended our meetings and respected their promises of discretion for almost forty years." He went on to explain: "It would have been impossible for us to develop our plan for the world if we had been subjected to the lights of publicity during those years. But, the world is more sophisticated and prepared to march towards a world government. The supranational sovereignty of an intellectual elite and world bankers is surely preferable to the national auto-determination practiced in past centuries," David Rockefeller, said speaking at the June, 1991 Bilderberger meeting in Baden, Germany.

2. Population Control

Rockefeller is no stranger to the agenda of population control. In a speech in September 14, 1994, during the Annual Ambassadors' Dinner he discussed how the U.N. should sustain the world's population, noting that improved public health has caused global life expectancy to rise from 46 years in the 1960s, to 60 years at the time. 'Stabilizing the population' – as Rockefeller called it – actually meant sterilization, vaccinations, encouraging abortions, using food as a weapon, and viewing disease and war as a means of "correction" to stop population growth.

3. Rockefeller Foundation was behind unethical experiments on the population

Following up from Rockefeller's own speech, we have the fact that the Rockefeller Institute was allegedly behind unethical experiments on the population. A few include infecting Guatemalans with STDs, sponsoring a plot by Dr. Cornelius P. Rhoads to infect Puerto Ricans with cancer, an allegation which Rhoads strongly denied and dismissed as a joke.

David Rockefeller joined the Rockefeller Institute board of trustees in 1940, was its chairman from 1950 to 1975, chaired the board's executive committee from 1975 to 1995, and became honorary chairman and life trustee.
