

Candidate Trump Pledged To Pull Out Of Harmful Treaties Like NAFTA. Now He Says: “I Will Negotiate Rather Than Terminate.”

President Trump dismissed talk about a split inside his White House between aides who are nationalists and those who are globalists with a nationalist or globalist orientation. “Hey, I’m a nationalist and a globalist,” he said. “I’m both.” Putting America first is no longer part of the presidential rhetoric. Trump’s advisors, Gary Cohn and Steve Mnuchin, are outspoken globalists with close ties to Goldman Sachs. Voters who trusted Trump to vigorously oppose globalist agendas in trade, international banking, and foreign policy are in shock. –GEG
