

Shocking: American Prosperity Has Been Fatally Wounded by Collectivism

written by GEG | May 29, 2017

While the US used to be a rich country, an increasing number of Americans now are living in poverty. Half of the people in the US have no savings and cannot raise $400 on a day's notice. Politicians refuse to address the death of the middle class because that is the consequence of their own controls over the economy. America is following the deadly path of collectivism only a few steps behind Venezuela. —GEG
