

California Governor Says He Will Commit His State to Climate Agreement Even If Trump and the Nation Do Not

Following Trump's announcement that the US is pulling out of the Paris climate accord, California Governor Jerry Brown lapsed into the usual rhetoric about the end of the world from global warming. He said that California will partner with China, Canada, Mexico, and Germany to impose carbon taxes in the name of saving the planet. [Global Warming, An Inconvenient Lie, a video series that thoroughly debunks this rhetoric, is available at Reality Zone.] –GEG

Man in Drag Performs Suggestive Dance in 'Talent Show' at New York Grade School

New York: A talent show for grade schoolers ended with a "surprise performance" by Manhattan PTA president, Frankie Quinones, who dressed in drag and performed a sexually suggestive dance. Elections will be held later this month for his replacement at the PTA. -GEG

Parents of students at a public elementary school in East Harlem went to see their kids at a talent show last week and got a full-on drag performance.

Mom Raquel Morales couldn't believe her eyes as she watched the erotic dance with her 10-year-old son.

"Even as I'm recording, I'm like, 'This must be déjà vu, I'm dreaming. This is not happening in a school assembly. This can't be,'" Morales said.

The performer in drag was none other than the president of the PTA at P.S. 96., Frankie Quinones. Video shot by Morales shows him twirling and gyrating to a song by '80s Puerto Rican performer Iris Chacon.

On an event flyer, the drag show was only billed as a "Special Surprise Performance!"

Morales questioned what organizers were thinking.

"He got on all fours on the choir stand, he laid on his back, raised his legs, opened his legs wide open. What made you in your head think that was appropriate for elementary school students?" Morales said.

Read full article here...

UK: Prime Minister Views Recent Terrorist Attack as Reason For UN Control over Internet

UK Prime Minister Theresa May is using the London attack to call for international controls over the internet. She says that the Internet is a breeding ground for terrorism. The real breeding ground for terrorism, however, is open borders, the war against Syria, and Western support for ISIS. –GEG

Fake News Spews Stories of Russian Conspiracies While Ignoring Bilderberg in Virginia

David Knight, reporting from the site of the Bilderberg meeting in Chantilly, Virginia, compares the investigation of an alleged Trump/Russia conspiracy with the non-investigation of this secret network of global political power. Attendees include David Patraeus, Eric Schmidt of Google/Alphabet, Alex Karp of Palantir, the company that does the data mining for the CIA, Henry Kissinger, and other world power brokers. Anti-Trump agitators and the media are in hysterical overload about Trump while totally ignoring a directorate of global power right under their noses. –GEG

Virginia: President Trump's National Security Advisor, HR McMaster, and Senators Lindsey Graham and Tom Cotton attended the Bilderberg meeting where globalists develop strategies for global sominance. There were 13 key topics for discussion, according to the Bilderberg's press release, and President Trump was at the top of the list. –GEG

Bilderberg Season: Closed Meeting Attended by Trump National Security Chief McMaster, Two Sitting Senators

CHANTILLY, Va.— The May 24 North American premiere of “Bilderberg, the Movie,” produced by researcher and author Daniel Estulin and covered exclusively by The TRUTH HOUND among national mainstream and alternative news outlets, stressed one point that cannot be overstressed: The Bilderberg Group above all is in pursuit of “One World Ltd.” On that note, the movie's promotional flyer asked: “What do people who have $1,000,000,000,000,000 talk about in private?”

The danger-ridden, tyrannical goal of creating an all-consuming corporate-ruled world superstate dubbed One World Ltd.—incrementally advanced since Bilderberg first met in Holland in 1954 under the auspices of Jesuit-trained European consolidator Joseph Retinger and his agent, Netherlands Prince Bernhard—explains why Bilderberg goes to such lengths to keep the details of its inner-workings so secret, while functioning as an off-the-grid world networking and planning forum for private governance benefitting the banking and general corporate classes. A core tactic is to parallel but eventually supersede the nation state itself, thereby canceling effective, genuine nationhood altogether.

While the Estulin movie itself, of course, could not be filmed, videographer Ron Avery shot footage of Estulin's question-and-answer session immediately afterwards.

Bilderberg's gatherings, for the record, consist of about 140 mainly North American and European corporate moguls (including select big media), government ministers, treasury officials, parliament members, high-technology leaders, certain royalty (including Bernhard's daughter, Netherlands Queen Beatrix) and central bankers who annually skulk into the world's top hotels, in order to cross-pollinate to pursue One World Ltd. and related financial and political dealings.

McMASTER, TWO U.S. SENATORS ATTENDING

It's highly notable that President Donald Trump's National Security Advisor, H.R. McMaster, is listed as an attendee for this year's Bilderberg meeting June 1-4 in Chantilly, Va., at Westfields Marriot. Other U.S. officials attending who are currently serving in public office are Sens. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.) and Tom Cotton (R-Ark.). While Graham jetted to last year's Bilderberg meeting in Dresden, Germany, Cotton evidently is attending his first-ever Bilderberg meeting.

The 65th Bilderberg gathering this year has 131 participants from 21 countries having confirmed their attendance. The entire attendee and official topic lists (but not necessarily complete) can be found at this link.

McMaster, Graham and Cotton all share a neo-conservative ideology of aggressively patrolling the world, in conjunction with the UK and the EU, to push Western “democracy” and monopoly capitalism, while fostering hostility toward Iran, Russia and Syria, for the benefit of Zionism, among other things. This fits the Bilderberg credo of using—one might say leasing—U.S. military power and other influence to control the natural resources and economic machinery of as many nations as possible, while co-opting or overthrowing those nations that stand firm with their own sovereignty.

The Virginia gathering marks Bilderberg’s first North American meeting in five years. Last year in Germany, according to the group’s officially shallow “press release,” they discussed (in their own words): Artificial Intelligence, Cybersecurity, Chemical Weapons Threats, Current Economic Issues, European Strategy, Globalisation, Greece, Iran, Middle East, NATO, Russia, Terrorism, United Kingdom, USA and U.S. Elections.

The group’s press releases, a marvel of “revealing simplicity,” typically present bluntly-worded topics, such as “Russia,” “Iran” “United Kingdom,” “European Strategy” and so on. Such topics are clearly indicative of Bilderberg’s objectives and concerns for maintaining Western hegemony over Russia and its allies, Iran and Syria, which could include war or the risk of war with Iran and does include targeting Syria under the guise of “fighting” ISIS.

Russia, Iran and Syria, besides being foes of Zionism and other matters tied to Israel, tend to oppose a U.S.-run unipolar world. Thus, those nations are demonized in leading Bilderberg-linked media as apparent obstacles along the path toward One World Ltd. Notably, the Washington Post organization gave $25,000 to a support group known as the American Friends of Bilderberg, according to the group's own 2008 "990" tax return.

THIS YEAR'S 'OFFICIAL' BILDERBERG AGENDA

According to Bilderberg's own anonymous press office, the 13 "key" topics for "discussion" this year "include": The Trump Administration: A Progress Report; Trans-Atlantic Relations: Options and Scenarios; The Trans-Atlantic Defence Alliance: Bullets, Bytes and Bucks; The Direction of the EU; Can Globalisation Be Slowed Down?; Jobs, Income and Unrealised Expectations; The War on Information; Why is Populism Growing?; Russia in the International Order; The Near East; Nuclear Proliferation; China; and Current Events

All of that pivotal content is posted, however vague some of it may be, yet Bilderberg still maintains that it goes to all the trouble and expense of meeting just to chill out and chat off the record (allegedly without detailed minutes kept, with the reporting press disallowed only so attendees can relax and speak freely, and supposedly with no decisions or consensus sought or made). Attendees, however, must not reveal afterwards what was discussed under Chatham House rules, though they apparently are free to use some of the ideas from the meetings, but without attribution.

However, this also is a way of rigging the game so everything stays secret, even while topics that include the word "strategy" contradict Bilderberg's position that it's just a forum for intellectual banter about megatrends in the world.

Read full article here...

Italy Mandates Vaccines for 12 Childhood Diseases, Germany May Impose Fines for Rejecting Vaccines

Italy experienced a threefold increase in cases of measles over last year. In response, Italian politicians mandated vaccination against 12 common infectious diseases, including measles, polio, whooping cough, meningitis, and hepatitis B, for children through age six, before they can enroll in school. Not to be outdone, Germany is considering imposing a $2,800 fine against parents who do not allow their children to be vaccinated. –GEG

Fines of up to €2,500 ($2,800) could await parents in Germany who fail to vaccinate their children, as panic and an ongoing outbreak of measles spread like wildfire across the nation.

Last week, a 37-year-old mother of three succumbed to the highly-contagious illness in North Rhine-Westphalia – and that troubling portent has officials rushing to quash the epidemic by requiring kindergartens to inform health authorities if parents do not receive vaccination counseling.

Noncompliance could find children expelled.

“Nobody can be indifferent to the fact that people are still dying of measles,” asserted Germany’s Health Minister Hermann Gröhe, reports Bild, adding the tightening of laws surrounding inoculations will be imperative, due to the widespread outbreak.

In March, the BBC reported “measles had become endemic (meaning that it is self-sustaining, continuing to spread within the country) in France, Germany, Italy, Poland, Romania, Switzerland and Ukraine,” as Forbes paraphrased. “The worst measles outbreak is in Romania, which reported over 3,400 cases and 17 deaths in just the first 3 months of this year.”

By the middle of April, Germany had 504 reported cases of measles in 2017 – up from just 33 in the same time period the previous year, and already in excess of the 326 cases reported for the whole of 2016.

German authorities already have the legal means to fine parents who choose not to vaccinate their children – but reporting those parents had been left to the discretion of schools.

Notes the BBC, the “upper house of the German parliament, the Bundesrat, said forcing kindergartens to report some parents to the health authorities might breach data protection laws.”

European officials appeared to lay blame for the insidious epidemic squarely at the feet of the vaccine awareness and anti-vaxx movements, following the worst measles outbreak in two decades in 2015.

Italy, however – which has thus far experienced a threefold increase in reported cases, compared with last year – took requirements about inoculation a step further than Germany.

Last week, Italian politicians mandated vaccination against 12 common infectious diseases – measles, polio, whooping cough, meningitis, and hepatitis B, among them – for youngsters through age six before they would be permitted to enroll in State-operated schools.

Italian officials excoriated what they termed “anti-scientific” theories on vaccination, such as a possible but as-yet unproven link to autism, for a decline in children receiving measles and other shots – a sufficient gap as to be conducive to an outbreak of this magnitude.

While authorities from a number of European nations lambasted parents for putative negligence in failing to vaccinate kids against measles; but, as the BBC reports, the World Health Organization noted only around 5,000 cases across the continent in 2016 – the lowest total ever recorded.

Read full article here...