

Professor Wants to “Get Rid of All the Whites” in the US in Order to Stop Vaccine Refusal

Carol J Baker, MD, a Pediatrics-Infectious Disease Professor at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, made the glib remark that, because most of the vaccine refusers are white, the solution to the task of getting everyone to accept vaccines is: “We’ll just get rid of all the whites in the United States.” -GEG

An infectious diseases expert ‘joked’ that a good way to eliminate vaccine refusniks, who overwhelmingly tend to be white people, is to simply “get rid of all the whites in the United States”.

The comments were made by Carol J Baker, M.D. at a May 2016 event in Atlanta, Georgia but are only just beginning to receive attention.

Baker, who is a Pediatrics-Infectious Disease Professor at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, Texas, told a National Meningitis Association panel discussion that a “solution” to the large numbers of white people who refuse to let their children be given vaccines is to “get rid” of white people.

“We’re talking about the minority [of vaccine refusers], and strategies against the minority,” said Baker. “So I have the solution: Every study published in the last five years, you look at vaccine refusers, I’m not talking about people we can talk them into coming to terms, but refusers. Let’s just get rid of all the whites in the United States, because Houston is the most diverse city in the entire United States.”

Baker went on to note how she as a white person was “in the [racial] minority for more than 20 years in the city of Houston,” adding that immigrants are superior because they take their vaccines.

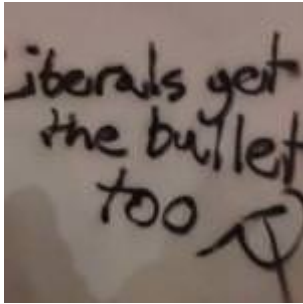

“Guess who wants to get vaccinated the most in Houston? Immigrants!” said Baker before going on to assert that there should be a “war” that is “fought one on one, with individual families” to make their children take vaccines.

We can only assume that Baker was making a crass joke (few seemed to find it funny). The fact that she is an infectious disease expert makes the joke even more ghastly.

Imagine a situation where people in the black community were refusing to undergo a certain treatment or medical procedure. Would anyone ‘joke’ that a good solution would be to “get rid” of all the black people?

This is yet another example of how casual anti-white racism has been allowed to become mainstream by dominant leftist cultural institutions.

Antifa Communists Say “Liberals Get the Bullet, Too”

Tim Pool, an independent journalist who has covered protests including Occupy Wall Street and the Ferguson riots, says that the majority of the violent protesters are Antifa communists. The common thread for these groups is the desire to take down the US. An example is when they chant, “No Trump, No Wall, No USA at ALL!” Pool says the radical left despises liberals and have said, “Liberals get the bullet, too.” -GEG

Nancy Pelosi Shouted Down by Illegal Aliens & Interview with Entitled DACA Recipient

Congresswoman Nancy Pelosi was shouted down by illegal immigrants who were furious over her negotiations with President Trump to prevent the deportation of the DACA 'Dreamers', and they made an all-or-nothing demand for total amnesty for 11 million illegal aliens residing in the US (the number is much higher). Tucker Carlson interviews Ivan Cija, a DACA recipient, who threatens repercussions against those who vote against illegal aliens, and Tucker responded by saying that the US government exists to protect US citizens, not illegal immigrants. The left is seeking to erase the distinction between citizens and non-citizens. -GEG

CNN Says FBI Wire Tapped Former Trump Campaign Manger

CNN reports that the FBI wire tapped Paul Manafort last year, during and after the campaign, on suspicion that he was encouraging Russia to help with Trump's campaign. When President Trump said he had been wire tapped, he was ridiculed in the media, but now it turns out that Manafort's communications with Trump likely were recorded, especially since Manafort was living in Trump Tower at the time. -GEG

US investigators wiretapped former Trump campaign chairman Paul Manafort under secret court orders before and after the election, sources tell CNN, an extraordinary step involving a high-ranking campaign official now at the center of the Russia meddling probe.

The government snooping continued into early this year, including a period when Manafort was known to talk to President Donald Trump.

Some of the intelligence collected includes communications that sparked concerns among investigators that Manafort had encouraged the Russians to help with the campaign, according to three sources familiar with the investigation. Two of these sources, however, cautioned that the evidence is not conclusive.

Special counsel Robert Mueller's team, which is leading the investigation into Russia's involvement in the election, has been provided details of these communications.

A secret order authorized by the court that handles the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) began after Manafort became the subject of an FBI investigation that began in 2014. It centered on work done by a group of Washington consulting firms for Ukraine's former ruling party, the sources told CNN.

The surveillance was discontinued at some point last year for lack of evidence, according to one of the sources.

The FBI then restarted the surveillance after obtaining a new FISA warrant that extended at least into early this year.

Sources say the second warrant was part of the FBI's efforts to investigate ties between Trump campaign associates and suspected Russian operatives. Such warrants require the approval of top Justice Department and FBI officials, and the FBI must provide the court with information showing suspicion that the subject of the warrant may be acting as an agent of a foreign power.

It is unclear when the new warrant started. The FBI interest deepened last fall because of intercepted communications between Manafort and suspected Russian operatives, and among the Russians themselves, that reignited their interest in Manafort, the sources told CNN. As part of the FISA warrant, CNN has learned that earlier this year, the FBI conducted a search of a storage facility belonging to Manafort. It's not known what they found.

The conversations between Manafort and Trump continued after the President took office, long after the FBI investigation into Manafort was publicly known, the sources told CNN. They went on until lawyers for the President and Manafort insisted that they stop, according to the sources.

It's unclear whether Trump himself was picked up on the surveillance.

The White House declined to comment for this story. A spokesperson for Manafort didn't comment for this story.

Manafort previously has denied that he ever "knowingly" communicated with Russian intelligence operatives during the election and also has denied participating in any Russian efforts to "undermine the interests of the United States."

The FBI wasn't listening in June 2016, the sources said, when Donald Trump Jr. led a meeting that included Manafort, then campaign chairman, and Jared Kushner, the President's son-in-law, with a Russian lawyer who had promised negative information on Hillary Clinton.

That gap could prove crucial as prosecutors and investigators under Mueller work to determine whether there's evidence of a crime in myriad connections that have come to light between suspected Russian government operatives and associates of Trump.
