

Why Is Media Saying Las Vegas Shooter Made Millions Playing Video Poker When That Is 100% Impossible? Coulter Has A Theory.

Ann Coulter criticizes the official versions of the Las Vegas shooting and offers a theory that makes more sense. The media says that Stephen Paddock made millions in profits from playing video poker, which is impossible long term. Coulter's theory is that he was laundering cash through the casino and was an illegal arms trader, which would explain the absurd collection of weapons and ammunition found in his room. This speculation is worth considering. -GEG

Now the media are just taunting us with their tall tales about Stephen Paddock, the alleged Las Vegas shooter. Reputedly serious news organizations are claiming that he made a living playing video poker. That's like claiming someone made a living smoking crack.

The media are either doing PR for the gambling industry or they don't want anyone considering the possibility that Paddock was using gambling to launder money.

NBC News reports, with a straight face: "Las Vegas gunman earned millions as a gambler." A Los Angeles Times article is headlined, “In the solitary world of video poker, Stephen Paddock knew how to win.” The story says that Paddock’s gambling “was at least a steady income over a period of years.”

I don’t know all the ins and outs of Paddock’s life, but that’s a lie.

How do reporters imagine casino owners make a living? Any ideas on how all those glorious lobbies, lights, pools and fountains are paid for? How do they think Sheldon Adelson and Steve Wynn became billionaires if gambling is a winning proposition for people like Paddock – and therefore, by definition, a losing proposition for the casinos?

The media think about money the way Democrats do. They have absolutely no conception of where it originates. Those casino owners sure are generous! reporters think to themselves. Economist Thomas Sowell is always ridiculing journalists for not understanding basic economics. It turns out, they don’t understand the spreadsheet of a lemonade stand.

The New York Times explained that the “top” video poker machines pay out 99.17 percent. That’s great that Paddock was only losing cents on the dollar (if true), but it’s still losing. The Times quickly explained that he could have more than made up his losses with all the “comps” – the free rooms, meals and “50-year-old port that costs $500 a glass,” as his brother Eric said.

Gamblers who are beating the house are not given $500 glasses of port. Refer to the profit/loss spreadsheet. And yet, according to his brother, Paddock was treated like royalty by the casinos. Which means he was losing.

The Security Guard Who Was Shot by the LV Killer Is Not a Security Guard After All

Nevada requires every security guard in the state to register as an armed or unarmed guard with the state's Private Investigator's Licensing Board. Jesus Campos, the man who was reported to be a Mandalay Bay security guard, was not registered. Campos was originally reported to have been shot in the leg by Paddock, who fired 200 rounds of ammunition through the door, after the shooting spree began. But the timeline has since changed, and Campos is now reported to have been shot six minutes before the mass shooting began. -GEG

It's being reported that the security guard made famous in the Las Vegas shooter story is not even registered as a guard with the State of Nevada. Is he even a guard? Why was he there?

Every security guard in the state of Nevada has to register as an armed or unarmed guard with the state's Private Investigator's Licensing Board (PILB). This entity's records are publicly searchable at: nevadapilb.glsuite.us.

There's no Jesus Campos licensed with the PILB.

Trump Threatens TV Networks With Loss of Licenses Over Report That He Wants Ten-Times More Nukes, Which He Says Is Fake News

President Trump has denied calling for a ten-fold increase in nuclear weapons. Trump made a comment about whether FCC licenses should be taken from NBC television stations after the network published a story on Wednesday saying he had done so in a meeting with military and security officials. Last December, Trump tweeted: "The United States must greatly strengthen and expand its nuclear capability until such time as the world comes to its senses regarding nukes." -GEG

Incensed by a story detailing how he wanted to drastically increase the country's nuclear arsenal, President Trump seemed to challenge the freedom of the press, saying it was "disgusting" that the media could "write whatever they want to write."

"People should look into it," he told reporters Wednesday.

Still, he claimed that he was not calling for restrictions on the press. He merely wants the press to "speak more honestly.”

“I’ve seen tremendously dishonest press,” he said.

His comments came hours after he charged that NBC and other news networks should have their licenses challenged.

“With all of the Fake News coming out of NBC and the Networks, at what point is it appropriate to challenge their License? Bad for country!” the president tweeted that morning.

University of Oregon Students Shut Down School President’s Speech, Supposedly to Protest Fascism

Student protesters shut down University of Oregon President Michael Schill’s ‘State of the University’ speech, claiming they were standing against fascism. In a pre-recorded speech, Schill announced that the university had recently received a $50 million dollar gift that would go towards a Black Cultural Center and nine new endowed faculty chair positions. [It is almost certain that this money will be used to further grow radicalization of students and to attack any trace of American traditions or Western culture.] -GEG

Student protesters shut down University of Oregon President Michael Schill's State of the University speech, claiming that they were standing "against fascism."

After they stormed the stage, the protestors chanted, "Nothing about us without us." They followed up by calling Schill a "CEO" and the university a "business firm."

"Our demands will be heard, we will be heard, we are the students, we will not be ignored," student protester leader Charlie Landeros exclaimed into a megaphone. "Expect resistance to anyone who opposes us." He went on to thank all students who came out to stand against the "fascism" at the University of Oregon.

Schill told the student newspaper at the University of Oregon that he wasn't angry at the students who derailed his speech. He claimed instead that he was "sad that they don't understand the value of free speech." He reminded them that he had recently worked hard to ensure that they could raise enough funds to erect a new Black Cultural Center on campus.

Ironically, Schill's speech was still delivered to the community. Schill and his administration anticipated the protests and decided to pre-record his remarks so that they could be distributed in the case that students attempted to shut him down. During the speech, Schill announced that the university had recently received a $50 million dollar gift that would go towards a Black Cultural Center and nine new endowed faculty chair positions.

Sweden: Dental Hygienist Fired For Revealing That 80% of Migrants Receiving Free Dental Care As Children Are Adults

Dental Hygienist, Bernt Herlitz, who worked for the Public Health Service in Visby, was told by the Swedish Migration Board to report all suspicions about migrant age to them, so he sent eight emails advising that 80% of the migrants that he examined were full-grown adults who had lied about their age to receive free dental care as children. He was fired after ten years of service. The district court ruled that a breach of patient secrecy had occurred, but also said there was no reason for his dismissal. -GEG

Swedish dentist Bernt Herlitz revealed to authorities that after checking the molar teeth of hundreds of migrant children that 80% of the so-called children were actually adults.

Herlitz was quickly fired and now may lose his home.

In June 2016 two migrants were arrested in February for raping a twelve year-old boy at a housing center for unaccompanied migrants in Sweden. The men said they were 15 but social media shows they were born in 1997 and 1971.

The men raped the child and recorded the attack on a cellphone.

The Swedish Migration Agency claims up to 70 percent of child migrants are actually adults.
