

Radical Marxists Are Leading the Criminal Justice Reform Movement

written by GEG | October 6, 2017

Instead of getting rid of the drug war and mandatory minimum sentences for small crimes, the current criminal justice reform movement is a radical leftist campaign. It is led by Angela Davis, an old-school former leader of the Communist Party, USA, with links to the Black Panthers. They want to abolish prison and free all prisoners, not because they are unjustly imprisoned, but because they want the most violent people in society to join their Communist revolution. Senators Rand Paul (R-KY) and Kamala Harris (D-CA) are lobbying to get rid of the cash-bail system so that those arrested and charged with crimes can be released back on the streets pending trial. -GEG