

Russia Today □ Forced to Register □ as a Foreign Agent Under Threat of Seizure

The Trump White House has ordered Russia Today (RT), a Kremlin-directed cable media outlet in the US, to register as a foreign agent under threat of seizing its assets and arresting its news director. Journalist, Max Blumenthal, is a frequent guest on RT and says there is a double standard being applied: the Israel lobby, and organizations like AIPAC (American Israeli Public Affairs Committee), promote war in Gaza, war in Lebanon and war in Iran, but are not required to register as a foreign agent. He says that the reason RT is being targeted is that it delivers news and views that are contrary to the versions authorized by the Pentagon and blocked by mainstream media. -GEG

Planned Parenthood Organ Buyers Earned Bonuses for Aborted Baby Parts

Holly O'Donnell, a former technician for Stem Express, which harvests baby parts from Planned Parenthood abortions, says her company used financial bonus incentives to obtain the maximum number of high value specimens such as brains, hearts, lungs and eyes that fetch top dollar when re-sold. Stem Express employees worked alongside abortionists in Planned Parenthood clinics in Northern California to extract body parts which were shipped via FedEx to researchers throughout the country. It is illegal to profit from the sale of human body parts. -GEG

A technician who participated in harvesting organs from aborted babies provided by Planned Parenthood says her company encouraged workers to obtain as many high-value samples as possible with incentives such as bonuses.

In the latest exposé from the Center for Medical Progress (CMP), former StemExpress procurement technician Holly O'Donnell admits bonuses varied according to body parts, with high-demand organs such as brains, hearts, lungs and eyes fetching top dollar.

"We wanted more gestated fetuses. It was a lot easier to get these and we could take more from it," O'Donnell tells CMP President David Daleiden.

The bonuses urged technicians to obtain as many specimens as they could as quickly as possible, with little to no regard for the safety or moral dilemmas faced by pregnant mothers.

“So if you really do your job, you get up to 11-20 specimens, you’re getting $20 per specimen. If it’s 1 to 10, you’re doing just blood, you’re getting $10 for one blood draw.”

Read full article here...

Representative Jackie Speier Says the House Has Paid $15 Million on Behalf of Sexual Harassers

US Representative, Jackie Speier, reports that in the past 10 – 15 years, the government has paid out $15 million on behalf of members of Congress who were sexual harassers. She is preparing legislation to change the current policy that requires victims to sign a non-disclosure agreement and then are denied representation by counsel, while the harasser is represented by general counsel of the House of Representatives. Most of the cost is passed to the taxpayers instead of being paid by the harassers. -

Soros' Media Matters Is Using Boycotts to Pressure Advertisers to Stop Sponsoring Sean Hannity's Show

Media Matters, a leftist group funded by George Soros, is running a campaign against Fox News anchor Sean Hannity, claiming he was sympathetic when interviewing Judge Roy Moore over allegations of sexual misconduct. Media Matters organized a boycott against Hannity's advertisers and eleven of them dropped his show. – GEG

Fox News host Sean Hannity warned viewers Monday of the "clear and present danger" from anti-free speech groups such as Media Matters for America, in the wake of a controversy in which the left-wing activist group successfully got Keurig to stop advertising on Hannity's show.

“Conservative voices in this country for years we have been facing a clear and present danger. This is an unprecedented act that is happening in this country and it has to do with people, right now if you support this president, if you're a conservative...you're a target,” he warned.

Keurig announced Saturday it had stopped advertising on Hannity after pressure from Media Matters – who claimed the Fox host had been sympathetic when interviewing Judge Roy Moore over allegations of sexual misconduct. Moore has denied the most serious of the allegations against him.

However, after a counter-protest that featured conservatives destroying their Keurig coffee machines, the company's CEO emerged Monday to walk back the boycott and apologize for its actions.

“This gave the appearance of “taking sides” in an emotionally charged debate that escalated on Twitter and beyond over the weekend, which was not our intent,” CEO Bob Gamgort said in a statement.

Hannity on Monday took Keurig's side, describing the company as “a victim in all of this” and said they were misled by the activist group taking his comments to Moore out of context. He also laid out the anti-First Amendment strategy of such left-wing groups. Financed by billionaire George Soros, Media Matters is one of a number of murky outlets that attempts to quash conservative voices by attacking the advertisers that give them the revenue to continue.

Read full article here...

Nigel Farage Proposes an Investigation into the 226 “Reliable Friends” of George Soros in the EU Parliament

Nigel Farage, the former head of UKIP (UK Independent Party), says the ‘Paradise Papers’ leak that revealed the names of the people who hold money in offshore accounts was funded by a George Soros organization. Soros recently poured $18 billion into his Open Societies Foundation that lobbies for open borders and a supranational government run by a bureaucracy of non-elected administrators. Farage calls for financial transparency, including the disclosure of payments from Soros to his 226 ‘reliable friends’ in the European Parliament. If this is done, he thinks it will expose the largest case of political collusion in history. -GEG

Nigel Farage says while Russia is accused of funding Britain’s ‘Leave’ campaign, financier George Soros’ recent $18 billion donation to pro-EU charity Open Society has escaped scrutiny. “This is where the real international political collusion is,” Farage says.

Speaking to the European Parliament in Strasbourg on Tuesday, Farage told fellow MEPs he believes that when it comes to international collusion, "we are looking in the wrong place." He says Soros' influence in Brussels is "truly extraordinary," adding: "I fear we could be looking at the biggest level of international, political collusion in history."

Farage, the leader of the Europe of Freedom and Direct Democracy Group, believes Soros has spent billions in the EU to undermine the nation state. "When we are talking about offshore money, when we are talking about political subversion, when we are talking about collusion, I wonder if we are looking in the wrong place.

"And I say that because George Soros recently gave Open Society, which of course campaigns for freedom of movement of people and supranational structures like the European Union, $18 billion. And his influence here and in Brussels is truly extraordinary."

George Soros has spent billions in the EU to undermine the nation state. This is where the real international political collusion is. pic.twitter.com/ANX0II7SFY

– Nigel Farage (@Nigel_Farage) November 14, 2017

Farage said Open Society boasts it held 42 meetings in 2016 with the European Commission, and has published a book of reliable "friends" in the European Parliament. There are 226 names on the list, he says. He told those MEPs he would be writing to them to establish whether they had accepted money or help from billionaire investor and liberal campaigner Soros.

"If we're going to have a debate, and talk about full, political and financial transparency, well let's do it. So I shall be writing today to all 226 of you, asking some pretty fair questions: Have you ever received funds directly or indirectly from Open Society? How many of their events have you attended? Could you please give us a list of all the representatives including George Soros?”

He is also calling on the European Parliament to set up a special committee to look into the issue. “I say this at a time when the use of money and the implications it may have had on the Brexit result or the Trump election has reached virtual hysteria.

Read full article here...