Paris Police Chief Bans March Against Islamic Terror and Immigration

written by GEG | December 3, 2017

Paris: Authorities cancelled a long-approved march opposing the spread of radical Islam across Europe. The event was canceled only hours before it was due to commence. The excuse was that police could not guarantee order in the face of counter-protestors. The cancellation sets a dangerous precedent for using the threat of violence as an excuse to ban non-violent protests.