Kids Introduced to Illuminati Theory by the Cartoon Network

written by GEG | January 9, 2018

The Cartoon Network's show, Teen Titans Go, is preparing young children to recognize Illuminati symbolism and theory for world domination by banks and elitists. It's possible the producers really don't understand the deeper meaning of this symbolism, but it also is possible that they are hoping to prepare young minds to subliminally recognize these symbols and theories and to 'normalize' them in their thinking. Either way, we are including this in our news because we think you may be interested in what is being shown to our children.