

Planned Parenthood to Give Transgender Hormone Drugs to Children

Planned Parenthood is expanding its business model by offering transgender hormone-replacement drugs to minors, even though the majority of children who think they are transgender grow out of it when they reach puberty. Planned Parenthood received $544-million in taxpayer money from 2016 to 2017, which was used to cover the cost of 321,384 abortions. The organization spent $15-million of that tax-funding as donations to elect Democrats to office. -GEG

Planned Parenthood has begun offering transgender hormone replacement therapy drugs to minors under the age of 18.

The media is praising the move as a great leap forward.

From MySunCoast:

SARASOTA, FL (WWSB) – Planned Parenthood is hoping to make life a little bit easier for the transgender community. They are now offering transgender hormone replacement therapy for those under the age of 18.

“We had a lot of parents actually reach out to us wanting to get care for the young people in their lives,” said Dr. Suzie Prabhakaran, Vice President of Medical Affairs for Planned Parenthood. “So we decided it was time for us to expand the care that we were providing to minors.”

Planned Parenthood has been providing transgender hormone therapy since October of 2016, but up until now that was for those 18 and older. They say transgender patients have a difficult time accessing care because a lot of doctors can be judgemental of those who are transgender. At Planned Parenthood, it all starts with an initial consultation.

“We talk to them about their medical history, why they’re seeking this care,” said Prabhakaran. “Then for most patients it’s providing prescriptions for medications that affect the changes they’re looking for.”

Planned Parenthood received $543.7 million taxpayer dollars from 2016-2017 which they used to abort 321,384 babies and to donate over $15 million to elect Democrats.

Studies show the majority of children who think they’re “transgender” grow out of it when they hit puberty.

Read full article here...