

Austria: Police and Army to Stage War Games at Border to Deter Horde of 80,000 Migrants

Police in the Balkans warned against an upswing in migrants, with an estimated 80,000 asylum seekers currently making their way through the region towards Western Europe. Austria's right wing government will stage border defense war games. Interior Minister Herbert Kickl said the drill will show that his country is serious about stopping illegal immigration and that there will be no "waving people through and registering them" as their predecessors did, which encouraged and increased mass immigration.

Austrian troops will carry out exercises preparing the nation's border defence against a migration influx later this month after Balkans police warned 80,000 third-world migrants are heading towards Western Europe.

With up to 1,000 police officers, soldiers, and riot police set to take part in June, the drill will be Austria's largest ever border patrol exercise, according to Kronen Zeitung, Austria's best-selling newspaper.

The announcement came following a security conference in Slovenia at which police chiefs from countries along the Balkans migration routes warned they had seen a significant upsurge in the number of border crossings.

Speaking after the conference, Federal Criminal Police Office (BK) director Franz Lang said that the situation in the Balkans is “critical”, with 80,000 asylum seekers currently making their way through the region towards Western Europe.

“Everyone [at the conference] concluded there was cause for concern,” he said, telling the Austria Press Agency that countries including Albania reported the number of migrant arrivals having more than doubled since this time last year.

“It is mostly young males travelling alone that police see on this ‘mosque route’, many of whom could be considered to be potential jihadists,” Lang added.

California City Learns That Diversity Created Fertile Ground for Mexican Mafia

Gary Gileno examines two articles in local papers that show how ‘diversity’ has hurt Pomona, a sanctuary city in southern California where 72% of the population is Hispanic. 83% of the children do not speak English. Open-borders advocates claim that areas with high immigrant populations are safer than those with non-immigrants. Pomona, however, is listed as the second-most dangerous Southern-California city after dark.

The second article is about the Mexican Mafia, called the "Gang of Gangs" by the FBI, that rules from prison and controls street gangs, like those in Pomona. It also controls drug trafficking inside Los Angeles County prisons. This Mexican Mafia has become an established entity that now functions effectively as an illegal government. [We do not agree with the reporter's blanket description of the appearance of the city of Pomona. It is true that there are empty lots that once were bristling with businesses, and it also is true that gang violence now makes it unsafe especially at night, but it should be noted that there are parts of Pomona that are clean and well groomed.]

Former NBA Player, Dennis Rodman, Says Obama Brushed Off N. Korea Peace Deal

Former NBA player, Dennis Rodman, became friends with Kim Jong Un five years ago while visiting North Korea. Rodman has been discussing peace with him ever since then and attempted to interest Obama in following that unofficial path, but was repeatedly brushed off. Rodman says he received death threats and had to hide out because he tried to broker peace between the two countries. -GEG

Trump Press Conference Reveals Intentions for Peace after Summit with Kim

President Trump gave a press conference to announce a signed agreement with Kim Jong Un that requires the complete denuclearization of North Korea, with sanctions remaining in place until Kim meets his commitment. Trump said also that U.S. war games will end and that his ultimate goal is to bring the 32,000 troops stationed in the area back home. Trump addressed Kim Jong Un's human-rights violations, that include killing members of his own family, by saying that Kim took over his country at age 26 years and has been able to run it. He concluded that we don't have to like it but we must admit that what he has accomplished is hugely significant. [The agreement that was revealed to the public is a statement of intent. Details now must be worked out. We may be sure that those details will involve US funding.] -GEG
