

Criminal Illegal Alien Deported 11 Times Attacked a Woman with a Chainsaw

Whittier, California: A criminal illegal alien, Alejandro Alvarez Villegas, who had been deported 11 times from the US, attacked his wife with a chainsaw in front of their children, ages 5, 8, and 10. Villegas' wife is suffering from serious injuries to her chest, and their children have been placed in protective custody. Villegas has a criminal history in the US that includes possession of a controlled substance and drunk driving. Villegas was apprehended the day after the attack in a stolen vehicle that he tried to ram into a police car when they were chasing him.

Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) officials say that a criminal illegal alien who had been deported 11 times from the United States attacked his wife with a chainsaw in front of their children.

Police arrested 32-year-old Alejandro Alvarez Villegas in Chula Vista, California on charges related to the alleged attempted murder of his wife at the couple's home, NBC San Diego reported.

Police found Alvarez Villegas' wife suffering from serious injuries to her chest on Wednesday after her husband allegedly attacked her with a chainsaw.

Officials say that the attack happened in front of the couple's three children – ages 5, 8, and 10 – who have now been placed into protective custody.

Read full article here..

Rod Rosenstein Indicts 12 Russian Nationals for Hacking, Uses Thin Accusations to Pollute Upcoming Trump-Putin Summit

Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein announced the indictments of 12 Russian nationals, formally accusing them of hacking the email servers for the Democratic National Committee (DNC), the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee and Hillary Clinton's campaign during the 2016 election, and giving the information to WikiLeaks Julian Assange to publish and throw election. Rosenstein's indictment confirms that there were no Americans involved in either the hacking or the dissemination of the Democrats' emails. The DNC has refused to allow an inspection of its servers. The timing of the announcement has led critics to believe that the deep state is trying to sabotage President Trump's upcoming meeting with Russian President Putin.

In order to save face over an investigation that has failed to produce a smoking gun regarding charges of collusion between the Trump campaign and Russia, the US elite have opted to indict Russian intelligence officials for election meddling. Yet the evidence, once again, is missing in action.

Amid harsh criticism at home for its failure to provide proof of Russian collusion in the 2016 presidential election, at the very same time that Trump is preparing to meet with Vladimir Putin for a summit in Helsinki, the US Deep State has resorted to playing spoiler with the most overplayed hand in modern political history: the 'Blame Russia' card.

On Friday, Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein announced indictments against 12 members of Russia's Main Intelligence Directorate of the General Staff, also known as GRU, for "conspiring to interfere with the 2016 presidential election."

According to the 29-page indictment, the defendants devised fictional online personas to compromise computers affiliated with the Democratic National Committee, as well as Clinton campaign chairman John Podesta. The purported 'hack' led to the release of tens of thousands of stolen emails by WikiLeaks. These communications revealed what amounts to criminal behavior on the part of the DNC, including overt bias against Democratic presidential nominee Bernie Sanders in favor of Hillary Clinton, as well as evidence that Clinton was fed the questions to public debates against Donald Trump. Those very serious findings have been sidelined amid the storm known as Russiagate.

The Russian Foreign Ministry vehemently rejected the accusations, saying it was a coordinated effort by "influential political forces in the US that are opposed to the normalization of relations between our countries and have spread open slander for the past two years."

“The goal of this ‘information attack’ is obviously to spoil the atmosphere prior to the Russian-American summit,” the ministry said, referring to the forthcoming meeting between Putin and Trump.

Indeed, the accusations leveled against the Russians ring hollow for several credible reasons.

First, the claims do not flush with WikiLeaks’ account as to how it came to possess the information. WikiLeaks founder and editor, Julian Assange, who has been living in the Ecuadorian embassy in London for over four years for fear of being extradited to the US, has denied that any state player was responsible for the “leak.”

“We’re unhappy that we felt that we needed to even say that it wasn’t a state party,” Assange told Sean Hannity of Fox News. “Normally, we say nothing at all.”

“We have ... a strong interest in protecting our sources, and so we never say anything about them, never ruling anyone in or anyone out,” Assange added.

Craig Murray, the former UK ambassador to Uzbekistan, who is now an affiliate of WikiLeaks, revealed that he knows the identity of the source.

“I know who leaked them,” Murray said. “I’ve met the person who leaked them, and they are certainly not Russian and it’s an insider. It’s a leak, not a hack; the two are different things.”

For those who prefer to see evidence before they jump the gun and wrongly accuse someone – in this case a nuclear-armed power – they share the approach of Devin Nunes, chair of the House intelligence committee, who said:

“I’ll be the first one to come out and point at Russia if there’s clear evidence, but there is no clear evidence – even now. There’s a lot of innuendo, lots of circumstantial evidence, that’s it.”

Second, according to an independent analysis carried out by a group called Veteran Intelligence Professionals for Sanity (VIPS), the DNS servers were compromised not through a ‘hack’ from some outside party, but rather through a ‘leak,’ that is, an ‘inside job.’

Read full article here...

Writer for HuffPost of Germany Calls for Abolishing the Native German People

Writer Veit Lindner advocates for replacing German people with foreigners to stop populism. The writer’s views are not that different from some German globalist politicians who promote ethnic Germans becoming a minority. Paul Joseph Watson says that instead of addressing the huge problems 2 million migrants have brought to the country, the German government appears more intent on indoctrinating Germans to accept the new way of things by crushing dissent and brainwashing people into compliance.

A writer for Huffington Post Germany has openly called for German citizens to be replaced with foreign migrants in order to stop the rise of populism.

The article, which was posted on Monday, is entitled Repeople us! Why the German people should be abolished (translation) .

Writer Veit Lindner asserts that to stop the momentum of the “new right,” “it would actually be best to just replace” the German people with foreigners.

“Attention, Germans! Fall in for comprehensive re peopling!” he writes, before going on to welcome, “Black, brown, yellow, white, Asians and Arabs, Africans, you people from America, India, people of all faiths – come and help us! Stream in and re people us, but thoroughly!”

“A little more genetic and cultural seed-scattering here and a little more self-abolition through reproduction fatigue there – that, as Deniz Yücel once called it, would be the “most beautiful side of the perishing of a people,” added Lindner, remarking, “We are either all foreigners or no one is.”

Lindner’s bizarre fetish to see ethnic Germans abolished is not that far removed from comments made by mainstream German politicians.

Last year, Germany’s Vice Chancellor said refugees coming to Germany were more German than actual Germans who criticize the migrant influx.

At the height of the wave of migrants flooding into Germany in 2015, the Green Party’s Stefanie von Berg said in a speech before the Bundestag that Germans will be a minority in their own cities within 30 years and that this is a “good thing”.

Read full article here...

Zimbabwe “Doomed Without Whites,” Says Outgoing Member of Parliament

Zimbabwe, the former breadbasket of Africa, purged whites from the land and then the farms died, creating mass starvation among the population. Recently, MP Joseph Tshuma was reported to have commented that his country cannot prosper without the involvement of the whites in its affairs and that no other country was capable of developing without the whites.

Mainstream media is ignoring this story.

From News 24:

An outgoing member of parliament for Zimbabwe’s ruling Zanu-PF party has reportedly claimed that the southern African country cannot prosper “without the involvement of whites” in its “affairs”.

According to NewZimbabwe.com, Joseph Tshuma who was the MP for Mpopoma Pelandaba said this while speaking at a political parties discussion forum in Bulawayo over the weekend.

OWN LAND IN ZIMBABWE

Zimbabwe's president tells white farmers they "should go"

14

BY TAYLOR WOFFORD ON 7/7/14 AT 8:47 PM

Mugabe is asking back the white farmers he chased away

By Tinashe Mushakavanhu

July 20, 2015

15

WORLD

2016

Zimbabwe pleads for $1.5bn in food aid to prevent mass starvation

BY VASUDEVAN SRIDHARAN ON 2/10/16 AT 5:30 AM

"We are coming from the era of Robert Mugabe. An era which closed us out from the rest of the world. We began to live in a vacuum. That was the most dangerous thing that was ever experienced by this country other than the bombings during the liberation struggle," Tshuma was quoted as saying.

Tshuma said that Mugabe made a mistake when he told Tony Blair to "keep your England and I'll keep my Zimbabwe".

"Yes, we kept our Zimbabwe but what kind of Zimbabwe did we keep? One thing that I have been made to understand and agree strongly whether painful or not, we cannot do away with that person called umkhiwa (white)."