

Millions of Africans Are Preparing to Migrate to the US or Europe Within Five Years

Italy: Carlo Jean, a military general and professor of Geopolitics at the Marconi University, says that military intervention by his country to deal with mass immigration from Libya already has become impossible. He says the only country that could intervene and make a difference is Egypt, but the cost would be too high. He believes that birth control is the only answer because, otherwise, by 2050, Nigeria will have more people than the European Union, and Africa will account for one-third of humanity. -GEG

Italian general and noted author Carlo Jean has dismissed the possibility of successful military action in Libya and warned that birth control measures need to be implemented to stop the massive future population growth in Africa.

General Jean, who currently serves as a professor of Geopolitics at the Marconi University in Rome, has claimed that Italian military intervention in the deteriorating situation in Libya would be “impossible”, Il Giornale reports.

Jean blamed French President Emmanuel Macron for destabilising the country saying that a summit Macron held in May excluded many local tribal leaders and led to tribal leaders thinking they would be “marginalised from access to wealth and moved against the centre of power”.

“It is known that there is no Libyan people but a group of tribes. Gaddafi himself, when he had problems, did not reunite the Council of the Revolution Command but that of the leaders of the tribes. Now, since France is the realm of rationality, it is unthinkable that it was an oversight,” he said.

When asked about potential Italian military support to calm the situation in Libya, Jean dismissed the idea saying the country would need at least 200,000 troops and that public opinion would turn against such an operation.

“Just see the trouble that the NGOs cause because we do not let migrants enter the ports. The only country that could intervene in Libya massively is Egypt, but in exchange for the oil fields of the Tibesti or, at least, the royalties of the exploitation of oil,” he said.

On the issue of mass migration from Africa, Jean said the answer to the problem was birth control.

“The hygiene measures and medicines we exported to Africa have extended life expectancy and infant mortality has plummeted. In the fifties, Africans were 200 million, now they are one billion and 200 million and, at the current conditions of growth, at the end of the century will be more than 4 billion,” he noted.

“If there is no demographic transition measure, they will be one-third of humanity. For example, Nigeria will have more people than the European Union in 2050. Then what do we do?” he said.

Antifa Threatens President Trump, Senator Cruz, and Judge Kavanaugh: “You Are Not Safe. We Will Find You.”

Smash Racism DC is an Antifa group operating in the capitol. The group harassed Senator Ted Cruz and his wife at a restaurant in DC on Monday night and drove them out of the restaurant. They also threatened Judge Kavanaugh, President Trump, and Senator Cruz on Twitter with a message telling them: “You are not safe. We will find you. We will expose you. We will take from you the peace you have taken from so many others.” The leftists deleted their tweet, but Twitter had not removed their account despite the clear violations of Twitter's terms of service. Mike Isaacson, an former economics professor at John Jay College, is one of the founders of Smash Racism DC and he previously called for the assassination of Vice President, Mike Pence, and the killing of police and all white people who were born before 1962. -GEG

The founder of the 'Smash Racism DC' group that harassed Senator Ted Cruz and his wife in a restaurant last night is Antifa professor Mike Isaacson, who previously tweeted about teaching "future dead cops" and assassinating Mike Pence.

A mob of angry leftists forced Cruz and his wife to leave the restaurant in DC last night before the video of their confrontation went viral.

The group then vowed to target other Republicans, tweeting, "You are not safe. We will find you....We will take from you the peace you have taken from so many others.

As the Hill reported in a September 2017 article entitled Antifa activists say violence is necessary, one of the founders of 'Smash Racism DC' is Mike Isaacson.

It is not known whether Isaacson still has any involvement with the group.

Isaacson worked in the economics department at the CUNY Manhattan college and was placed on administrative leave last year after he tweeted, "Some of ya'll might think it sucks being an anti-fascist teaching at John Jay College but I think it's a privilege to teach future dead cops."

Isaacson previously tweeted his desire to "Kill all white people born before 1962."

On the day of the presidential election, Isaacson tweeted, “Reminder that if Trump does end up winning this stupid thing to assassinate Mike Pence first.” The tweet has not been deleted and remains active.

Pennsylvania: Bill Cosby Sentenced 3 to 10 Years in Prison for Sexual Assault in 2004

Bill Cosby, 81, the comedian and actor who was accused of drugging and sexually assaulting more than 60 women, was tried, convicted, and sentenced in Pennsylvania. The judge sentenced him to a minimum of three to a maximum of ten years in prison and described him as a “sexually violent predator”, a classification that requires monthly counseling for the rest of his life. When he is released from prison, his name will appear on a sex-offender registry sent to neighbors and local schools. Cosby's lawyers asked for house arrest, claiming the Cosby is legally blind, but he may be disqualified for the program because the judge deemed him a "sexually violent predator." -GEG

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) – A judge declared Bill Cosby a “sexually violent predator” on Tuesday as he prepared to sentence the 81-year-old comedian for drugging and sexually assaulting a woman over a decade ago.

The classification means that Cosby must undergo monthly counseling for the rest of his life and report quarterly to authorities. His name will appear on a sex-offender registry sent to neighbors, schools and victims.

Montgomery County Judge Steven O'Neill made the decision as he weighed the punishment for Cosby for violating Temple University women's basketball administrator Andrea Constand at his suburban Philadelphia estate in 2004.

Cosby declined the opportunity to address the court before the judge retreated to his chambers around noon to weigh the sentence. O'Neill said he would announce his decision early in the afternoon.

The comic once known as America's Dad for his role as wise and understanding Dr. Cliff Huxtable on "The Cosby Show" in the 1980s faced anywhere from probation to 10 years in prison after being convicted in April in the first celebrity trial of the #MeToo era.

Cosby's lawyers asked for house arrest, saying Cosby – who is legally blind – is too old and helpless to do time in prison. Prosecutors asked for five to 10 years behind bars, saying the comic could still be a threat to women.

Montgomery County District Attorney Kevin Steele rejected the notion that “age, infirmity, should somehow equate to mercy.”

“He was good at hiding this for a long time. Good at suppressing this for a long time. So it’s taken a long time to get there,” Steele said.

Cosby’s lawyers had fought the “sexually violent predator” designation, arguing that Pennsylvania’s sex-offender law is unconstitutional and that he is no threat to the public at his age. But O’Neill said prosecutors had met their burden of proof by “clear and convincing” evidence.

Project Veritas Exposes IRS Employees in New Undercover Video

James O’Keefe’s Project Veritas released the fourth undercover video unmasking the Deep State. Two IRS officials, Thomas Sheehy, an IRS tax examiner and member of the Democratic Socialists of America, and Jerry Semasek, an IRS attorney in Washington, DC, candidly discuss the IRS’s unfair treatment of conservative non-profit groups. Sheehy praised former IRS Commissioner, John Koskinen, as being “so cool” for deleting emails to get rid of evidence. Sheehy went on to say that conservative groups should be given extra scrutiny, even if it is a crime because he thinks they are they are fronts for the Koch brothers. Attorney Semasek said that certain groups with phrases like “tea party” or “patriots” in their names received extra scrutiny, and he admits that was a mistake. -GEG

UPDATE: Sep 25, 2018, 2:36 PM | Project Veritas attorney Ben Barr submitted this complaint to the Department of Justice regarding the findings of this investigation.

(Washington DC) Project Veritas has released the fourth story in a series of undercover reports which unmask the Deep State. This report features two Internal Revenue Service (IRS) officials who candidly discuss the IRS's unfair treatment of conservative non-profit groups. The two officials in the report are Thomas Sheehy, an IRS tax examiner and member of the Austin Democratic Socialists of America in Texas, and Jerry Semasek, an IRS attorney in Washington, DC.

The Austin Democratic Socialists of America is a socialist group that works to advance 'progressive issues' in Austin, Texas.

Flagrantly Targeting Conservative Groups

Sheehy boasts about and appears to justify former disgraced IRS Commissioner John Koskinen, who was mired in scandal for losing tens of thousands of emails regarding the Lois Lerner controversy. The Lois Lerner controversy occurred in 2013 and involved revelations showing that the IRS unfairly scrutinized conservative groups.

SHEEHY: "John Koskinen. He got a lot of flak for giving increased scrutiny to these Tea Party groups. Conservatives got really mad at him, he was so cool though because he deleted all the emails, so they could not hold any evidence against him."

Sheehy continues:

SHEEHY: "Yeah, I don't give a st if that is a crime for doing that because... you should give increased scrutiny to those groups because a lot of them are just fing fronts for the Koch brothers or whatever."

Mistakes Were Made

In a separate meeting, attorney Semasek discloses to Project Veritas multiple times that “mistakes were made,” during the 2013 scandal when conservative non-profits were targeted when applying for tax-exempt status.

SEMASEK: “... you know what, for what it’s worth, on the record, I know people in Tax Exempt Government Entities. All that stuff we saw in the news, yeah mistakes were made”

SEMASEK: “... The law requires that an organization can’t be political, it can’t be partisan to be tax exempt... Those employees in Cincinnati Ohio started to separate them and put them in a pile. And it turns out that they were like the Tea Party group of people. And I think they did, like Lois Lerner and maybe some of her employees were more liberal leaning or Democrats so I don’t know if they disallowed them, but they required them to produce more documentation to try to prove that they weren’t partisan.”

He repeated that mistakes were made:

SEMASEK: “... and that was bad. I think, from what people tell me, that really know about, there were mistakes made, but the problem with what happened... And again, there were mistakes made, and I think probably some people that were advised against conservative groups did make some mistakes.”
