

James O'Keefe of Project Veritas Releases Video of Deep State Employee Who Admits He Uses His Job to Advance Socialism and Resist Everything Else

written by GEG | September 19, 2018

Project Veritas investigators infiltrated the US State Department and exposed left-wing activists using their jobs to pursue their agenda. Stuart Karaffa, a Management and Program Analyst with the Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations, is a member of Democratic Socialists of America, and proudly admits that he engages in DSA activism on the job. He is part of the anti-Trump resistance movement and said his goal is to, “Resist everything.” He joked that, even if he got caught, it is impossible to fire a federal employee. -GEG

James O'Keefe's Project Veritas launched its long-awaited investigative series into the “deep state” on Tuesday morning with a video of a State Department employee who boasts about organizing for the Democratic Socialists of America (DSA) during work.

Stuart Karaffa, who formerly worked on a data analytics program cut by the Trump administration, told Project Veritas journalists operating a hidden camera that he now filled his 8:30-to-5:00 days with work for the DSA, waiting until quitting time to send his DSA emails.

He said that theoretically he could be caught – “Maybe someday I'll go to Board of Elections jail” – probably not but joked that it would be impossible to fire a federal employee.

Read full article here...