

Portland's Mayor Says City Is Safe for Drivers Despite Recent Car Attack by Antifa and Street Brawl

Portland was the site of more violence caused by Antifa on Saturday by spraying the Patriot Prayer and Proud Boys demonstrators with pepper spray. A fight, with both sides reportedly using clubs and fists, only lasted minutes before police stepped in, dressed in riot gear and firing non-lethal rounds of pepper balls.

Last week, Antifa protesters bashed a car with clubs when the driver tried to escape from the intersection that the leftist group had shut down. Mayor Ted Wheeler, a liberal who also serves as the city's police commissioner, defended a decision to have police stand down during the incident, saying that police must watch out for their own safety, while at the same time, he tried to claim that "motorists should feel completely safe coming into downtown Portland."

Hillary Clinton and Maxine Waters have called for incivility and confrontation, and Antifa is happy to oblige.

Street anarchy and mob violence on American streets is getting wilder by the day.

As OregonLive.com reports, the demonstration billed as a march for “law and order” in the streets of Portland descended into chaos as rival political factions broke into bloody brawls downtown Saturday night.

Members of the right-wing group Patriot Prayer and their black-clad adversaries, known as antifa, used bear spray, bare fists and batons to thrash each other outside Kelly’s Olympian, a popular bar on Southwest Washington Street.

As The American Mirror reports, Patriot Prayer is advocating for the removal of Mayor Ted Wheeler, who has defended the actions of his police department, which stood down as agitators blocked traffic and intimidated residents this week. Antifa, apparently, is backing the mayor.

The Washington Times reports that Wheeler stands by his decision to allow Antifa mob rule in his city by ordering the police to stand-down:

“I was appalled by what I saw in the video, but I support the Portland Police Bureau’s decision not to intervene,” he said at a Friday press conference. “This whole incident will be investigated.”

Even so, Mr. Wheeler insisted that “motorists should feel completely safe coming into downtown Portland.”

Mr. Wheeler, who also holds the title of police commissioner, took a swipe at recent unflattering news coverage, such as a Fox News story headlined, “Mob rule? Leftist protesters take over Portland street.”

“I’m willing to take criticism all day long from Fox News,” he said. “But I’m not willing to accept criticism from Fox News of the men and women of the Portland Police Bureau.”

The mayor argued that law enforcement is in a no-win situation.

“This is the story of Goldilocks and the two bears. The porridge is either too hot or it’s too cold,” Mr. Wheeler told reporters. “At any given moment in this city, the police are criticized for being heavy-handed and intervening too quickly, or they’re being criticized for being standoffish and not intervening quickly enough.”

Doing something to protect the tax-paying citizens who fund your entire career seems like a place to start, rather than worry about the political optics of any intervention.

1300+ Migrants from Honduras Begin Organized Trek to US Border for Economic Benefit

'The March of the Migrants' includes more than 1300 Honduran men, women and children who have organized through social media to trek north to seek asylum in Mexico and the US. The media reports that lack of jobs, poverty and violence are motivating the migrants headed for the US border.

Update: The caravan has grown in number to 3,000 people. President Trump reacted by tweeting, "The United States has strongly informed the President of Honduras that if the large Caravan of people heading to the U.S. is not stopped and brought back to Honduras, no more money or aid will be given to Honduras, effective immediately!"

More than 1300 Honduran men, women, and children began a trek that is expected to take them through Central America and Mexico. Some of the migrants plan to seek asylum in Mexico while others plan to head to the U.S. border. The march appears to be organized through social media.

The march, dubbed "March of the Migrants," began this weekend in San Pedro Sula, Honduras, where more than 1300 men, women, and children began a trek that will take them from Honduras to Guatemala and into Mexico where some will seek refugee status. Others are expected to continue north to the U.S border, Reuters reported.

Soon after the march began, social media groups promoting the well being of Honduras and Central America posted videos and photographs condemning the government and the lack of opportunities in the country.

The march is largely being organized through social media where Honduran residents were called upon to begin the trek in San Pedro Sula, Reuters' Gustavo Palencia reported in Spanish.

Mexico's Azteca Noticias reported that the ultimate goal of those in the march is to reach the U.S. border to escape the poverty and the violence in Honduras.

According to Reuters, the primary reasons being mentions by those taking part in the trek are lack of jobs and violence. The march comes just months after a similar effort organized by the U.S. group Pueblo Sin Fronteras helped coordinate a caravan of more than 1,500 men, women, and children that trekked through Central America into Mexico seeking to reach the U.S. to request asylum, Breitbart Texas reported. While some members from that caravan stayed in Mexico, a large number made their way to the border where they worked to request asylum at the international ports of entry.
