

Man Discovers How To Make Crooked Politicians and Corporate Executives Personally Liable for Their Actions

written by GEG | May 26, 2019

Cal Washington describes himself as just an ordinary person who discovered a higher legal jurisdiction that overrides national laws that are derived from what is called Common Law and Admiralty Law. Cal has been using this knowledge of higher law to confront politicians and corporate executives who are decision makers for compulsory vaccines, smart meters, and the roll out of 5G radiation. Cal says he consistently has won all kinds of legal challenges ranging from speeding tickets to tax liens. At the Red Pill Expo, he is prepared to show his method, which he says has caused mayors, city councilmen, and even heads of corporations to resign their positions within a few days of receiving his Notice of Liability for any illness, injury, loss of income or death that might follow their decisions.

That's the startling message to be delivered by Cal Washington at the Red Pill Expo in Hartford, Connecticut, June 7-9. If you cannot attend, you can watch the event online after the video is delivered to the Archives of Red Pill University.

Cal describes himself as just an ordinary person who discovered how the legal systems in the Western World really work. There is a higher legal jurisdiction that overrides national laws that are derived from what is called Common Law and Admiralty Law. Cal discovered that, if he avoided accepting the jurisdiction of civil courts, he could successfully challenge almost all of the civil laws that, increasingly, are diminishing human liberty.

Cal says he consistently has won all kinds of legal challenges ranging from speeding tickets to tax liens. At the Red Pill Expo, he is prepared to show how he did this, including one battle that ended in a complete victory in which the government admitted it owed him millions of dollars.

Interesting, to be sure, but it becomes even more so when we learn that, recently, Cal has been using this knowledge of higher law to confront politicians and corporate executives who are decision makers for compulsory vaccines, smart meters, and the roll out of 5G radiation. He says that mayors, city councilmen, and even heads of corporations have resigned their positions within a few days of receiving his Notice of Liability for any illness, injury, loss of income or death that might follow their decisions.

Is all of this true? Frankly, I don't know for sure, but so far, everything has checked out. I am looking forward with great interest to hearing what Cal has to say and seeing the evidence he will present. If politicians and corporate executives can no longer hide behind what they call the corporate veil and if they could be held personally responsible for the damage they do, I believe that 99% of what we hate about corporations would disappear overnight.

When you visit the Expo web site, you will find 27 other speakers of similar high caliber, all of whom have experience and knowledge that is mind boggling. Cal is a featured speaker.
