Los Angeles: The US Attorney's Office charged 22 men linked to the MS-13 gang for crimes that include the brutal slayings of seven people in California, which includes the act of cutting the heart out of one of the victims. They are suspected in 200 more crimes in several states over the past nine years. Of the 22 defendants, 19 had entered the country illegally in the past three or four years. Federal prosecutors say the suspects operated in the San Fernando Valley, an area that recently absorbed an influx of immigrants from Central America. Nearly all of the members and associates of an MS-13 gang charged in the "medieval-style" slayings of seven people in California were in the country illegally, officials said.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Los Angeles charged 22 people linked to a subset of the vicious gang that's known as the Fulton clique, members of which are suspected in nearly 200 crimes in several states over 9 years, according to a federal indictment released Tuesday.

"We have now taken off the streets nearly two dozen people associated with the most violent arm of MS-13 in Los Angeles," U.S. Attorney Nick Hanna said.

Of the 22 defendants, 19 had entered the country illegally in the past three or four years, according to Thom Mrozek, a spokesman for the U.S. Attorney's office in Los Angeles.

PROSECUTORS ACCUSE MS-13 OF 7 'MEDIEVAL-STYLE' SLAYINGS, INCLUDING CUTTING HEART OUT OF RIVAL

Federal prosecutors allege the suspects operated in the San Fernando Valley, an area that recently absorbed an influx of young immigrants from Central America.

- MS-13 has as many as 10,000 members in the United States and is active in at least 30 states. Since FY 2017, 900+ MS-13 members have been apprehended at the southwest border.
