Democrat megadonor Ed Buck, the creepy sex pervert who allegedly drugs young black male prostitutes for sexual gratification, was arrested on Tuesday after a third man overdosed at his house in West Hollywood, Fox News reports.

From Fox News:

Buck was charged with three counts of battery and is accused of injecting the alleged third victim with methamphetamine on Sept. 11, The Los Angeles Times reported.

Prosecutors wrote in court papers obtained by the Times that Buck used his position of power to manipulate his victims into participating in his sexual fetishes.

"These fetishes include supplying and personally administering dangerously large doses of narcotics to his victims," the prosecutors wrote, according to the Times.

[...] In July 2017, a young black man, Gemmel Moore, was found dead of a drug overdose in Buck's apartment. Buck, who is white, was not charged.

An autopsy report said Moore, 26, died of a methamphetamine overdose. He was found naked on a mattress in the living room, which was littered with drug paraphernalia.

Eighteen months later, 55-year-old Timothy Dean also suffered a methamphetamine overdose. Prosecutors didn't file criminal charges, citing insufficient evidence. Activists, however, have called for his arrest.

*In the most recent incident, Buck allegedly brought the man to his home earlier this month and injected him with methamphetamine. About a week later, the man returned to Buck's home and was injected again and suffered an overdose, according to court documents obtained by KTLA.

Buck is accused of thwarting the man's attempt to get help. The man fled the apartment and reportedly called for help from a nearby gas station. He survived but was treated at a hospital.
