

Nigerian-Born Rap Artist, Now a Citizen of Sweden, Advises His Black Fans to Shoot White People If They Feel Insulted

Nigerian-born rap artist Jesse Ekene Nweke Conable, who emigrated to Sweden in 2008, and now has citizenship, called for his fans to “shoot” white people if they insult a black person or their family. He commented that blacks will “become number one and take over these whites.” He added, “Like these whites took us as slaves we should take them as slaves and treat them even worse,” and, “We’ll take their b and we’ll take their money.”

“If any white guy or white girl is trying to talk st about you, shoot them!”, a popular YouTube profile JCBUZ urged in a closed group on social media.
