

UK: Police Record 120,000 'Non-Crime' Hate Incidents in Background Check Database that May Stop the Accused from Getting Jobs

Despite police admitting that such incidents are not crimes, the incidents are still logged on a system and can show up during a background check when applying for work, and could prevent the accused from getting jobs; nearly 120,000 'hate incidents' have been recorded.