During a speech about an abortion case before the Supreme Court, Democrat Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer threatened Supreme Court Justices Neil Gorsuch and Brett Kavanaugh saying, "you have released the whirlwind and you will pay the price. You won't know what hit you, if you go forward with these awful decisions."

Chief Justice Roberts condemned Chuck Schumer in a rare statement calling the Senator's threats "dangerous".

Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer (D-NY) threatened two conservative Supreme Court justices as he spoke at a pro-choice rally in front of the Supreme Court Wednesday as the Court heard a Louisiana case on restricting abortion.

Schumer's threats were so shocking that Chief Justice Roberts released a rare statement condemning him:

"This morning, Senator Schumer spoke at a rally in front of the Supreme Court while a case was being argued inside. Senator Schumer referred to two Members of the Court by name and said he wanted to tell that that "You have released a whirlwind, and you will pay the price. You will not know what hit you if you go forward with these awful decisions." Justices know that criticism comes with the territory, but threatening statements of this sort from the highest levels of government are not only inappropriate, they are dangerous. All Members of the Court will continue to do their job, without fear or favor, from whatever quarter."

In 2017, Schumer threatened President-elect Trump: "You take on the intelligence community, they have six ways from Sunday at getting back at you."
