

Denver: Man Accused of Murder had Been Freed from Prison Due to Coronavirus

written by GEG | May 18, 2020

The murder occurred 30 days after he was he had been freed from prison due to a state executive order to reduce the prison population during the public health crisis. He was serving a seven-year sentence for robbery when he was released.