

Bill Gates Really Does Plan to Vaccinate Everyone in the World

written by GEG | May 11, 2020

In the first video of this series, James Corbett explains how Bill Gates leveraged his great wealth to gain control over all global-health institutions. He has funded research and public relations campaigns that, in the guise of philanthropy, have returned his money many times over. Gates is held up as a hero for donating billions of dollars to the quest for vaccines but, during this time, his net worth has doubled and now stands at $103.1 billion.

In the second video, Corbett continues to follow the trail of 'philanthropy for profit' and shows how Gates made a $10-billion commitment to develop vaccines for the world's poorest countries in 2010, kicking off what he called a "Decade of Vaccines." The story of how many people were maimed or killed by these vaccines is sickening. Gates now insists the world will not go back to normal until a vaccine has been developed. His plan includes unproven technologies, including DNA and mRNA manipulation. It is sad to realize that millions of people will be propagandized into accepting them, not realizing there likely will be massive casualties that follow. -GEG
