

Three Churches Were Burned Within 24 Hours. Why Does the Media Remain Silent?

written by GEG | July 13, 2020

A fire destroyed Faith Tabernacle Pentecostal Church in Elkmont, Alabama Friday night in a massive blaze. The cause of the fire is unknown. On Saturday, a man drove into the Queen of Peace Catholic Church in Ocala, Florida, before lighting it on fire; the parishioners inside were able to escape without injury. Steven Anthony Shields has been arrested, and he told investigators he has schizophrenia and isn't taking his medication. Next, a fire destroyed the roof of 249-Year-Old San Gabriel Mission Church in California, just one week after the Father Serra statue was removed from the property and stored out of sight due to vandalism of Serra statues by far-left activists across California.

A fire destroyed Faith Tabernacle Pentecostal Church in Elkmont, Alabama Friday night.

On Saturday a man drove into a church in Ocala, Florida, before lighting it on fire.

Next, a fire destroyed the roof of 249-Year-Old San Gabriel Mission Church in California.

Despite three churches burning across the country in just over 24 hours, you're unlikely to have heard about it if you are only following mainstream media. It is highly unlikely that there would have been this kind of silence if the arsonists were right-wing or if they the places of worship been any other religion.

Read full article here...