

Danish Study Finds Masks Provide Little Protection From COVID-19 Infection

written by GEG | November 19, 2020

A large, randomized study out of Denmark concluded wearing face masks may not provide the protection health experts have claimed as the clinical trial found wearing surgical masks failed to cut the risk of being infected with coronavirus by half.