

Peggy Hall Explains Why California Businesses Can Stay Open Legally and How Requiring Masks Violates 22 Laws

written by GEG | December 11, 2020

A business may lose its license only if it violates a law or a state regulation. But there is no law that requires citizens to wear a mask in business establishments. All that exists is an edict from the Governor, who has no authority over any of these matters.

California Restaurant Association Wins Case Against County for Shutting Down In-Person Dining

written by GEG | December 11, 2020

Los Angeles Superior Court Judge James C. Chalfant ruled against the LA County Health Department in a legal challenge from the California Restaurant Association after the county shut down outdoor and indoor in-person restaurant dining indefinitely.

UK Warns Against Giving Pfizer Vaccine to People Prone to Allergic Reactions

written by GEG | December 11, 2020

The first 800,000 doses of the Pfizer formula in the UK are going to people over 80 who are already hospitalized or are scheduled for outpatient procedures, and nursing home staff.

Authorities hope to get emergency authorization for the Pfizer vaccine to begin deploying it this week in the U.S.

New York Lawmaker Linda Rosenthal Submits Bill to Force COVID Vaccine on Citizens

written by GEG | December 11, 2020

Governor Andrew Cuomo stated that you cannot make someone take a vaccine, but the state can coerce an individual to be vaccinated as a "condition" of other things, such as receiving welfare or enrolling your child in school.

Pfizer Vaccine Trial Reported 6 Deaths, 4 Cases of Bell's Palsy and Cases of Severe Pain

written by GEG | December 11, 2020

The FDA document revealed that there were four cases of Bell's palsy in the vaccine group compared with no cases in the placebo group. One Pfizer trial participant told CNBC that after the second shot, he woke up with chills, shaking so hard he cracked a tooth.