

How China-Backed American Communists Use Minority Groups to Flip States to Blue

Trevor Louden explains how Virginia, once a deeply conservative Republican state, became controlled by left-wing Democrats. The Chinese have communist networks in America who are US citizens but owe their loyalty to China. They register hundreds of thousands of minorities and then get them to the polls for elections.

New Virginia Majority was founded by Jon Liss, an old Maoist who was involved with Jesse Jackson's Rainbow Coalition and the anti-apartheid movement in South Africa. He is involved with Liberation Road, which Liss has turned into a powerhouse by focusing on immigrants and minorities, targeting them in door-to-door voter registration drives. Trevor does an excellent job of explaining exactly how this is working. -GEG
