

Rick Wiles Floats 2024 Prez Campaign On Platform Of Seizing Big Tech Billionaires' Wealth & Giving It To The Poor

Christian pastor Rick Wiles says he may run for president in 2024 on the populist platform of breaking up Big Tech companies and giving the wealth of billionaires to the poor. Wiles argues against the economic power of billionaires and said, "When you use your money and power to change my life, to take away my rights, to try to force things on me that I object to, that I find morally repulsive, when you try to restrict my free speech, when you try to promote population control, you want to pump vaccines into my body, when you want to change society, you know what? You're my enemy," Wiles declared. "The only way you're able to do it is because you're a billionaire. So then we need to take away your billions." [If you think taking money from the rich and giving it to the poor is a good idea, then you have just bought into the prime slogan of Socialism and Communism. It's a bad idea even if it is directed against someone you dislike. Why? Because there are hundreds of millions of people in the world who consider YOU to be rich. – and you will be next. How about just throwing these psychopaths in prison forcing them to give back their stolen money to those from whom they stole it? That would be the middle class, not the poor. But even that is a bad idea, because governments will never be honest or just when redistributing money from Group A to Group B. They will always find a way to steal most of it in the process, and it will serve no purpose than to perpetuate and legitimize legalized plunder.] -GEG
