

Canada: Woman Calls Funeral Homes for Truth about COVID Death Numbers

written by GEG | May 27, 2021

A woman called numerous funeral directors in Ontario, in the cities of London and Toronto, which has a population of over 6 million people, to inquire whether they noticed a huge increase in deaths in 2020, or if the number of deaths were in line with previous years. All of the funeral homes answered that the deaths were similar to previous years. A funeral director in Winnipeg, Manitoba, which has a population of 750,000 people told her that the death rate was normal, and when she told him that she feels like her government is lying to the public, he advised her to keep questioning everything and that she was on the right track. There is no pandemic.
