

Australia Admits Widespread Severe Injuries From COVID Jab, Offers Compensation to Victims

As many as 79,000 people have suffered from severe side effects from the COVID jab, and the government is prepared to dole out over $600,000 in compensation for some victims who have been severely injured.