

Was the French Presidential Election Stolen? Votes Disappeared Just Like Trump 2020 and the California Recall

written by GEG | April 29, 2022

Paris: Protests erupted after President Emmanuel Macron was reelected last weekend and angry people threw tomatoes at him during a public outing on Wednesday. Macron reportedly won the election with 58.5% of the vote in a run off against populist Marine LePen who got 41.5% of the vote. Many people believe that the election was stolen because Macron is very unpopular and had an approval rating reported at 36% at the time of the election. The most stunning evidence that there was election fraud was that over 1.1 million votes disappeared from LePen on live TV. It is impossible to lose votes already counted in an honest election. Officials claim that the TV channel France 2 displayed inaccurate figures due to a computing error.

The disappeared votes for LePen are similar to vote theft in California to recall Governor Gavin Newsom, as more than 350,000 ballots tabulated in favor of removing him from office were deleted on a live CNN show. Video shows nine instances of removing votes from Trump during the 2020 Presidential election on live TV.

Marine LePen:

Le Pen had come within 5 percentage points of Macron in the first round of voting two weeks before the run off election, and the media fanned fears of an ultranationalistic turn in French politics as she had an anti-immigrant agenda.

During her campaign, Le Pen pledged to dilute French ties with the 27-nation EU, NATO and Germany, moves that would have shaken Europe's security architecture as the continent deals with its worst conflict since World War II. Le Pen also spoke against EU sanctions on Russian energy supplies and faced scrutiny during the campaign over her previous friendliness with the Kremlin.
