

These Scientists Used CRISPR to Put an Alligator Gene into Catfish

written by GEG | February 5, 2023

A team of scientists have attempted to insert an alligator gene into the genomes of catfish for the purpose of reducing disease in farmed fish as about 40% of them die from infections. US fish farms produced 307 million tons of catfish in 2021.