

Bayer's Modified Soil Microbes Could Trigger a Genetically Engineered Doomsday

written by GEG | January 17, 2024

Bayer and its partner Ginkgo Bioworks say they're going to replace some agrochemicals for genetically engineered microbes. Ginkgo Bioworks has received $15 billion in investment to develop a platform to automate the genetic engineering of thousands of microbes at once.