

Chinese Scientists Turn Copper into 'Almost Gold' That Can Replace Precious Metals in Electronic Devices

written by GEG | December 28, 2018

The new material would revolutionize industries with readily available and inexpensive copper – although the report does not say how much it costs to create the conversion.