Flashback: In 2009 the CDC Lied about 22-Million People Getting the Swine Flu

written by GEG | April 20, 2020

In 2009, the CDC stopped counting H1N1 cases and patient deaths because almost none of the cases they had counted as Swine Flu was, in fact, Swine Flu or any sort of flu at all! But that didn’t stop the CDC from claiming that 14 to 34-million people got infected with the H1N1.
