

Free Speech Debate Leaves TV Host Speechless

written by GEG | January 18, 2018

Canadian professor of psychology, Dr. Jordan Peterson, while being interviewed about his defense of free speech, is asked by a TV host: "Why should your right to freedom of speech trump a trans person's right not to be offended?" He responded: "Because in order to be able to think, you have to risk being offensive. Look at the conversation we're having right now. You're certainly willing to risk offending me in the pursuit of truth. Why should you have the right to do that?" The TV host was left with no response.
