

Principal of New York School Demands Parents Become “White Traitors”

The principal of the East Side Community School for students from the 6th to 12th grade, recently sent white parents a manifesto that calls on them to become “white traitors” and advocate “white abolition.” Wikipedia identified Mark Federman as the school’s principal. According to a chart sent out by Federman, there are “8 white identities,” which range from “white supremacist” to “white abolition.” Accompanying text, previously circulated by left-wing extremists, demands that white people “subvert white authority,” “dismantle institutions,” dismantle whiteness, and not allow whiteness to reassert itself. Teaching of racism has become commonplace in American schools as children now are taught that the white race is intrinsically evil. [A deeper analysis of this issue leads to awareness that teaching racism – no matter what race is the target – is part of the globalist scheme to cause the target race (in this case, the white race) to recoil in anger against other races. Divide and conquer is the end game of this strategy. Don’t fall for it.] -GEG

The principal of East Side Community School in New York sent white parents a manifesto that calls on them to become “white traitors” and advocate for full “white abolition.”

“This is the new language of public education,” tweeted Christopher F. Rufo along with an image showing “the 8 white identities,” which range from “white supremacist” to “white abolition.”

The accompanying text, which has been circulated before by left-wing extremists, defines the behavior white people must practice in order to put an end to “the regime of whiteness.”

The two final stages, “white traitor” and “white abolitionist,” demands that white people “subvert white authority,” “dismantle institutions,” dismantle whiteness and not allow whiteness to reassert itself.

As Glenn Greenwald pointed out, this is yet another example of how political correctness isn’t about “just being nice to people” as progressives constantly claim.

Biden Says Antifa “Just an Idea,” Yet Antifa.com Website Takes You to ‘Biden for President’ Donation Page

Democratic presidential nominee Joe Biden defended Antifa, the far-left anarchist movement, refusing to acknowledge that the radical left is responsible for violence and rioting in Democrat cities and said white supremacists pose a greater danger to the country. Biden said that Antifa is “an idea, not an organization.” Curiously, the Antifa.com website redirects to Joe Biden’s campaign donation page.

Democrat Joe Biden would not share that Antifa is a terrorist organization but the URL Antifa.com redirects to Joe Biden’s campaign donation page?

Last night during the first Presidential debate Biden stated that Antifa was an idea:

Documentary: ‘Anarchy USA – In the Name of Civil Rights’, Written and Produced by G.
Edward Griffin

This amazing documentary, written & produced by G. Edward Griffin, has been forgotten for many years. Although it was produced in 1965 at the height of the civil rights movement, it is far from being out of date. It provides lessons and insights that could not have been appreciated three decades ago.

This is not about blacks vs. whites. Instead of merely telling the story of the 1960s riots, this documentary describes what preceded those riots, who wanted them to happen, how they were organized, and what they were intended to accomplish. The focus is not merely on racial issues, but on how any difference between groups of citizens can be used to manipulate them into acts of self-destruction. The program shows how agitation in American in the name of civil rights compares to similar movements that have led to the overthrow of many governments around the world.

Maryland: Teen Brothers Charged in Deadly Assault Get Probation – No Punishment!

Frederick, Maryland: John Marvin Weed, 59, died last year at the fair after two brothers, aged 15 and 16, beat him for refusing to give them $1. The boys repeatedly punched him in the head and knocked him out with a sucker punch before spitting on him while he laid on the ground dying. The 15-year-old, who reportedly delivered the fatal blow, was tried as a juvenile and pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

Judge Julie Stevenson Solt made the decision to keep him in the juvenile system, even though the state requested that he be tried as an adult. The unidentified teen was placed in a juvenile facility until he completes a 'behavioral modification program' where he is being provided with 'anger management,' training in social skills, and education. His brother, who was 16 at the time of the killing, was initially charged with two counts of second-degree assault related to the attack, including the act of spitting on the victim as he laid dying on the ground. Judge Solt ultimately ordered the older teen be placed on probation and enrolled in an anger-management program. -GEG

The second of two teen brothers charged after a man died at the Great Frederick Fair last year was placed on probation Wednesday and ordered to complete an anger management program, among other commitments.

The older of the brothers, who was 16 years old at the time of the Sept. 20 assault, was initially charged with two counts of second-degree assault related to the attack that killed 59-year-old Mount Airy resident John Marvin Weed.

Of those charges, one count was for the teen reportedly spitting on Weed after he had fallen to the ground, which was the charge the teen pleaded guilty to July 8 during a hearing in Frederick County Circuit Court. The second assault charge was dropped per a plea agreement reached between prosecutors and Stacey Steinmetz, an attorney representing the teen.

A reporter for The Frederick News-Post was asked to leave the courtroom Wednesday after Steinmetz asked that hearing be closed to the public. Judge Julie Stevenson Solt agreed, saying that much about the case that would be discussed, especially regarding the teen's past and other details, would be too sensitive to be shared in open court.

Law enforcement officials and prosecutors claim that the younger brother, who was 15 at the time of the assault, approached Weed on the midway of the fairgrounds at about 5:30 p.m. Sept. 20 and asked him for a dollar, according to stories posted previously by The Frederick News-Post. After a brief exchange of words, the 15-year-old punched Weed, igniting a scuffle that was soon joined by the 16-year-old.

Weed was punched repeatedly in the head during the assault with the 15-year-old landing the final blow that left the Mount Airy resident unresponsive on the ground, according to previous stories.

Solt ultimately ordered the older teen be placed on probation and that he complete an anger management program, among other conditions, according to a press release issued after Wednesday's hearing by the Frederick County State's Attorney's Office. The juvenile court maintains jurisdiction over a case until the the case is closed or until the respondent ages out of juvenile court, meaning the maximum term of probation the teen could serve in this case would be until he reaches 21, according to Steinmetz.

Racist Platform of the Democratic National Committee Negatively References 'Whites' 15 Times

The Democratic National Committee is holding its convention in August and aims to appeal to minorities by featuring support for Black Lives Matter and pledging to fight racism. In doing so, it portrays Whites as having unwarranted privilege and exploiting Blacks. The document doesn't capitalize the word white as it does Black, Latinos, Asian Americans, and Native Americans. GEG

Below are the 15 references to whites:

1. We will never amplify or legitimize the voices of bigotry, racism, misogyny, anti-Semitism, Islamophobia, or white supremacy.
2. Median incomes are lower and poverty rates are higher for Black Americans, Latinos, Native Americans, and some Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders, compared to median white households.
3. And there is a persistent, pernicious racial wealth gap that holds millions of Americans back, with the typical white household holding six times more wealth than the typical Latino family and 10 times more wealth than the typical Black family.
4. The wage gap between Black workers and white workers is higher today than it was 20 years ago.

5. It takes a typical Black woman 19 months to earn what a typical white man earns in 12 months – and for typical Latinas and Native American women, it takes almost two years.
6. Even before the COVID-19 pandemic, the uninsured rate was nearly three times higher for Latinos and nearly twice as high for Black Americans as it was for whites.
7. Black children are far more likely than white children to suffer from asthma.
8. Latinos, Native Americans, Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders, and Black Americans are diagnosed with diabetes at higher rates than whites.
9. Black women are more than three times as likely to die from complications of pregnancy and childbirth compared to white women.
10. President Trump's words and actions have given safe harbor and encouragement to bigots, anti-Semites, Islamophobes, and white supremacists.
11. The extreme gap in household wealth and income between people of color – especially Black Americans, Latinos, and Native Americans – and white families is hurting our working class and holding our country back.
12. We will confront white nationalist terrorism and combat hate crimes perpetrated against religious minorities.
13. Each year, the United States spends $23 billion more on schools in predominantly white districts than in non-white districts.
14. We will root out systemic racism from our military justice system, where black service members are twice as likely as white ones to face court-martial.
15. Our counterterrorism priorities, footprint, and tools should shift accordingly, including to respond to the growing threat from white supremacist and other right-wing terrorist groups.

Special-Ed Teacher Under Fire for Encouraging BLM Supporter to Kneel on Baby

A disturbing photograph surfaced on the internet that depicted BLM supporter, Isaiah Jackson, kneeling on a baby in a photo (that mimicked the knee hold on George Floyd) with the caption “BLM now MF”. Jackson is currently in jail on a parole violation in Ohio. While most people condemned the stunt, Brian Papin, a special-education teacher at Cedar Grove High School in Atlanta, Georgia, encouraged Jackson to “lean into it until death.” -GEG

A disturbing photograph depicting a BLM supporter Isaiah Jackson kneeling on a baby surfaced on the internet on Wednesday. While almost everyone hated him for doing such a stunt, a special education teacher Brian Papin of Cedar Grove High School, Atlanta, Georgia, encouraged him to “lean into it until death.” Check Brian Papin wiki, bio, and news.

The Facebook post of a black man kneeling on a white baby went viral on social media platforms which saw a teacher commenting a horrific statement. Brian Papin has come under fire and an investigation is underway to extract more details on the Cedar Grove High School special education teacher.

Brian Papin Cedar Grove High School Special Ed Teacher Details

According to his LinkedIn page, Brian has been a special ed teacher at Cedar Grove High School since July 2018.

Numerous calls were reported to DCSD (DeKalb County School District) leaders about “the disturbing social media post associated with a district teacher.” The district confirmed the news shortly after on July 23.

In the viral photograph which read “BLM now me,” Brian supported Isaiah to continue leaning on the two-year-old baby till his death. The teacher is facing backlash from people around the world for not condemning the act. A teacher should always propagate peace and encourage everybody around to follow the right path.

Democrat Activists and Black Lives Matter Push Agenda to Replace Police

Tucker Carlson explains that the demand by Black Lives Matter to defund police across the nation is not a proposal to get rid of police, but to replace them with leftist operatives, giving Democrats control over law enforcement. Minneapolis City Council President Lisa Bender said calling the police and expecting help is a sign of racism and white privilege. Republicans in Washington DC are ignoring the problem because they are afraid to criticize Black Lives Matter. Political leaders and law enforcement have been kneeling at Black Lives Matter events, signaling submission. The mob is demanding ideological conformity, and some people have lost their jobs for speaking out against the riots and chaos. Brian Lieter, a law professor at the University of Chicago, called for an armed coup to overthrow the President of the United States. The protests are not about black lives, but instead encourage theft and mayhem. -GEG

Seattle Releases Hundreds of Prisoners and Cops Stop Arresting Criminals

King County, Washington state set a goal of releasing 600 prisoners from jail, in response to the Coronavirus scare. The County also implemented a policy of stopping bookings for most misdemeanor charges. Crimes that won't be booked include shoplifting, property damage under $750, animal abuse, obstructing a law enforcement officer, trespassing, and vehicle prowling. While police will not act against these crimes, Seattle Police Chief Carmen Best told citizens that efforts to deal with the pandemic included vigilance against "hate crimes". Don't call the police for protection against prowling or theft, but be sure call if you see "hate". -GEG

Seattle's police chief took to Twitter to warn residents of the spread of the coronavirus while also informing them that they should call 911 if they witness "racist name calling."

"Washington State is no place for hate. In a show of solidarity, @LoriMatsukawa joined me to remind everyone that hate has no place in our community," a post on Seattle Police Chief Carmen Best's Twitter account read Monday. "Report hate, including racist name calling, to 911. We are here to help, and will respond to investigate. #WeGotThisSeattle."

Lori Matsukawa is a former local news personality who joined Best's campaign to crack down on racism during the coronavirus pandemic, according to Reason.

"Hate crimes have no place in our community," Matsukawa said. "We are all trying to deal with the COVID-19 public health crisis together. If you are a victim of a hate crime or hate-based harassment, please call 911."

President Trump was criticized by many of his political opponents for pointing out the coronavirus originated in China. A CNN headline from late February, for example, reads, “What’s spreading faster than coronavirus in the US? Racist assaults and ignorant attacks against Asians.”

The FBI issued a warning against potential hate crimes against Asian Americans during the coronavirus pandemic.

Mississippi Man Claimed Pro-Trump Racists Vandalized His Two Vehicles. Police Charged Him with Fraud.

A Mississippi man, Trumaine Foster, was charged with insurance fraud and tampering with evidence after he reported racist graffiti had been spray-painted on two of his vehicles. Although police haven't released details, the arrest seems to indicate the man may have either been involved in the graffiti himself or was trying to use it to defraud his car insurance company.

A black Mississippi man who reported racist graffiti had been painted on his vehicles was arrested Friday and charged with insurance fraud.

Although police haven't released details, the arrest seems to indicate the man may have either been involved in the graffiti himself or was trying to use it to defraud his car insurance company.

The investigation began on Feb. 4 when Southaven police were called to an address on Marcia Louise Drive for a report of car vandalism.

Upon arrival, the owner, 35-year-old Trumaine Foster, showed officers two cars in his driveway that had been spray painted with racial slurs including the N-word and "Trump" written on one of the cars.

George Zimmerman Files $265-Million Lawsuit Against Elizabeth Warren & Pete Buttigieg

George Zimmerman was acquitted in the 2012 shooting death of 17-year-old Trayvon Martin. New evidence has been documented by Joel Gilbert in his film, The Trayvon Hoax, showing that false testimony was given by an impostor witness. In December 2019, Zimmerman filed a lawsuit for $100-million against Trayvon's parents, accusing them of "malicious prosecution" and accusing them of engineering the false testimony. In this lawsuit, Zimmerman is going after Democrat presidential candidates Pete Buttigieg and Elizabeth Warren in a $265-million defamation lawsuit for their remarks on Twitter that USA Today said were made "for political gain in misguided and malicious attempts to bolster their standings amongst African-American voters, all at Zimmerman's expense." -GEG

George Zimmerman filed a $265 million lawsuit alleging Mayor Pete Buttigieg and U.S. Sen. Elizabeth Warren defamed him. Polk County, FL – George Zimmerman, the man acquitted in the 2012 shooting death of 17-year-old Trayvon Martin, filed a defamation lawsuit seeking $265 million from Democratic Presidential candidates Pete Buttigieg and Elizabeth Warren. The lawsuit was filed in the 10th Judicial Circuit Court on Tuesday and claimed both Presidential candidates defamed Zimmerman in tweets posted on what would have been Martin's 25th birthday, USA Today reported. Zimmerman was a neighborhood watch leader who fatally shot Martin on Feb. 26, 2012, but was acquitted in a 2013 jury trial.

Martin was visiting his father in Sanford when he encountered Zimmerman, who told police he was out patrolling the neighborhood when he encountered the teen, the Miami Herald reported.

Zimmerman had reported Martin to police before and was following him before the two engaged in a physical altercation that ended when 28-year-old Zimmerman fatally shot the teen.

Prosecutors called it an unjustified shooting of a teenager eating Skittles and Zimmerman claimed it was self-defense, according to the Miami Herald.

The jury believed Zimmerman's account of the incident and he was acquitted.

Zimmerman has had a few brush-ups with the law since the Trayvon Martin trial ended.

In 2015, he was arrested for throwing a wine bottle at his girlfriend but she decided not to press charges, according to The Hill.

And Zimmerman was given 12 months' probation in November of 2018 on a misdemeanor stalking charge after he was accused of threatening to feed a private investigator to an alligator.

The private investigator claimed that Zimmerman had called him 21 times, texted him 38 times, and left seven voicemails in less than two-and-a-half hours, The Washington Post reported.

In December of 2019, Zimmerman filed a $100 million lawsuit against Martin's family that alleged "malicious prosecution."

The new lawsuit against Buttigieg and Warren accused the two Presidential hopefuls of defaming Zimmerman on Twitter "for political gain in misguided and malicious attempts to bolster their standings amongst African-American voters, all at Zimmerman's expense," USA Today reported.

Meghan Markle and Prince Harry's 'Threat of a No-Holds Barred Interview' If They Don't Get Their Way Stirs Fears They May Brand Royal Household 'Sexist and Racist'

Prince Harry and Meghan Markle made a surprise announcement last week that they plan to step down as 'senior members' of the Royal Family and will become financially independent. There is a threat that Meghan and Harry may give a 'no-holds barred' interview if they are left feeling hard done by, and palace aides fear that Meghan may brand the royal household "racist" and "sexist", thereby further damaging the monarchy.

The Royal couple said they would no longer receiving funding through the Sovereign Grant that provides 5% of their income. It is unclear whether they will give up their other sources of funding. The pair receives 95% of their income from the Duchy of Cornwall, a private estate that is owned by the Duke of Cornwall – currently Prince Charles. The couple trademarked the Royal Sussex brand, applying it to dozens of items and services from pencil cases to sport activities and education training. Harry and Meghan plan to live in Canada, which will cost Canadian taxpayers $500,000 for security provided by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Meghan Markle and Prince Harry's 'threat of a no-holds barred interview': Couple's confidante Tom Bradby says they could go public if they don't get their way over Megxit – amid fears they would brand royal household 'sexist and racist'

- Tom Bradby said it is in interests of royal household to keep the Sussex's on side
- He believes Duke and Duchess could give damaging 'no-holds barred' interview
- He said the couple find some Royal family members 'jealous' and 'unfriendly'
- It comes as officials hash out plan of Harry and Meghan's new roles in monarchy

Journalist and close confidante of Prince Harry and Meghan Markle Tom Bradby has warned that if the Royal couple are left feeling hard done by, they may give a 'no-holds barred' interview which would could further damage the monarchy.

Mr Bradby, who the Duke and Duchess of Sussex opened up to in an ITV interview in which Meghan admitted she was struggling with her new role, suggested it is in the interests of the royal household to keep the couple on-side.

It comes as officials hash out a plan of what Harry and Meghan's new roles within the monarchy will look like, after their bombshell announcement earlier this week that they would step down as 'senior members' of the Royal Family.

Writing in the Sunday Times, Mr Bradby said: 'I have some idea of what might be aired in a full, no-holes-barred sit down interview and I don't think it would be pretty.'

Courtiers fear that Meghan would brand the royal household racist and sexist, according to the publication.

The Duke and Duchess of Sussex have made it clear they plan to carve out a more 'progressive' path for themselves within the royal family.

Bradby believes Harry is determined to 'make the best' of the situation they have found themselves in, and believe they are taking a positive step which could also pave the way for future generations including Princess Charlotte and Prince Louis.

The Queen has called for a solution that is workable not just for Harry and Meghan but could also apply to following generations.

And ahead of an unprecedented Family crisis summit at Sandringham on Monday:

- ITV presenter and Sussex confidante Tom Bradby said the couple could give a 'no-holds-barred' interview that could further damage the Royal Family. Courtiers fear Meghan could brand the household racist;
- Royal aides were poised to spell out the punitive taxes that could be inflicted on Harry and Meghan if they press ahead with their plans to quit;
- A video from July emerged where Harry seemed to tell head of Disney Meghan is interested in doing voiceovers. She has since been given work with the company;
- Prince Philip was said to be livid with the current crisis ravaging the Family;
- A source rubbished speculation the Sussexes plan to settle down on Vancouver Island where they spent Christmas and instead touted Toronto or LA as potential cities;
- It emerged Meghan sneaked back to Vancouver Island on a £134 budget flight;

- It was revealed Meghan and Kate Middleton haven't spoken in over six months after the sisters-in-law severed all communication on a family WhatsApp group
- Reuters reported that negotiations between Buckingham Palace, Clarence House, Kensington Palace and the Sussex household has been progressing well;
- Her Majesty was pictured stony-faced as she emerged from her Norfolk estate behind the wheel of her Land Rover for the second day running

Mr Bradby is considered a good friend to both Prince Harry and Meghan, as well as brother Prince William.

Writing in the Times, he added that the couple find members of the Royal Family, excluding the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, 'jealous and, at times, unfriendly.'

He claimed that the foundations for the rift were laid at the time of their wedding in 2018.

'Really damaging things were said and done. The atmosphere soured hard and early, but few meaningful attempts were made by anyone to heal the wounds,' Mr Bradby wrote.

He said that William 'did try' to make amends with the Duke and Duchess but 'for the moment, at least, things have gone too far to be retrieved.'

Tom Bradby's ITV documentary 'Harry & Meghan: An African Journey' aired in October, during which Meghan revealed she was 'existing not living' while Harry spoke out about his struggles with mental health.
