

A Secret Recording Reveals That The Bank Of England Pressured Commercial Banks To Manipulate Interest Rates

written by GEG | April 11, 2017

UK: The central bank (Bank of England) pressured commercial banks during the 2008 financial crisis to alter their settings for LIBOR (the London Interbank Offered Rate), which is the rate at which banks lend their reserves to each other.