

French Court Orders Removal of a Cross from the Monument to St. John Paul II. Says It Violates Secular Nature of the State

written by GEG | November 6, 2017

A French high court ruled that a cross on top of a monument to Saint John Paul II in a public square in the city of Ploërmel, saying it violates the secular nature of the state.