

Biden Administration Lost Track of 5,000 Migrant Children, Possibly Sold into Child Sex Trafficking

The federal government has lost contact with around 5,000 out of almost 15,000 children who were released into the interior of the US between January and May. Sponsors no longer have to get fingerprinted to claim a child. Almost anyone who doesn't flag as a violent felon and claims to be a relative can claim a child.